SCARLET FEVER PROVES FATAL

Miss Marian Sheely Dies after Illness of Few Days at Tower City. A General Favorite among Young People of Gettysburg.

MISS MARIAN SHEELY
After an illness of only a few days from scarlet fever, Miss Marian J. Sheely, daughter of Mrs. W. Clarence Sheely, of Springs avenue, died in Tower City shortly before nine o'clock this morning. She was in her twentieth year.

The news of Miss Sheely's death came this morning as a shock to every one who knew her. It is doubtful if any young girl in Gettysburg had as many friends and admirers as did she. Attractive, pleasant and happy, she was a general favorite among all the young people of her own circle, and to older people and all other acquaintances she was always pleasant and courteous. She will be greatly missed by every one who knew her, but especially by her own intimate friends, and these she numbered by the score.

Marian Jean Sheely was born in Gettysburg on May 4, 1895, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Clarence Sheely. She attended the public schools of Gettysburg and later Wilson College, at Chambersburg. After the death of her father she gave up her studies at the latter institution and entered Gettysburg College from which she was graduated in June. In the summer of 1914 she accepted a position as teacher in the schools of Tower City and there, not only proved successful, but established herself in the hearts of her acquaintances as she had already done during all of her life in Gettysburg.

During her Senior year in college she spent several months teaching in the schools of Tyrone, where she was also most popular.

A week ago she was stricken with what at first appeared to be a severe attack of Grippe. Her mother was summoned to her bedside and soon after her arrival the illness was pronounced scarlet fever. The patient's condition grew rapidly more serious and her death occurred about 8:45 this morning.

She leaves her mother, two sisters and a brother, Miss Frances Sheely who is teaching in the public schools of York; Miss Edith Sheely and Clarence Sheely, at home.

The body will be brought to Gettysburg on Friday afternoon at 1:45. The funeral will be private and will proceed from the train to the Evergreen Cemetery where interment will be made.

J. RUSSELL McBETH

J. Russell McBeth, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James A. McBeth, of Aspers, died Wednesday noon at that place from pneumonia aged 17 years, 2 months and 28 days.

He leaves the following sisters and brothers, Blanche J. McBeth and Reynolds O. McBeth, both of whom are teaching in Porto Rico; McKinley McBeth, Bendersville; John McBeth and L. Gladys McBeth, living with their uncle John M. Howard, Mt. Tabor.

Funeral from the home of Mr. Howard Saturday morning at ten o'clock. Services and interment at Mt. Tabor church.

MRS. JOHN TROSTLE

Mrs. Maria Trostle, wife of John Trostle, died at her home in East Berlin, on Sunday evening, after a lingering illness from tuberculosis and other complications aged about 68 years.

Before marriage Mrs. Trostle was Miss Maria Forry. She leaves her husband and three daughters, Mrs. Albert Stambaugh, of near East Berlin; Mrs. William Boyer, of Hanover, and Miss Minerva Trostle, at home.

SCHOOLS CLOSE

Gettysburg Children Enjoy Holiday when Teachers Attend Meeting.

The public schools of Gettysburg closed at 10:30 this morning to allow the teachers to hear the addresses at the directors' convention in the Court House. The schools were closed all afternoon for the same purpose and the children enjoyed thoroughly their holiday. Some of the county schools were also closed for the same purpose.

TO HEAR BEALES SIDE OF CASE

Testimony on Behalf of Congressman-elect will be Taken in York, Beginning Next Wednesday. Ignore Hunterstown Hearings

At the hearing of the Brodbeck-Beales controversy in York this morning, Jere S. Black, attorney for Mr. Beales, announced finally that no notice whatever would be taken by Mr. Beales or his counsel of the proposed hearings at Hunterstown next week. Mr. Black further announced that the taking of testimony for Mr. Beales' side of the case would be begun in York next Wednesday. A large number of York County witnesses, including Mr. Brodbeck, will be subpoenaed to-night and the hearings will be held whether or not the present congressman's side is represented.

Four witnesses were heard at this morning's hearing, and all of the testimony was objected to by Mr. Beales' attorneys on the ground that it was concerning the Second Precinct, of the Tenth Ward, which was not mentioned in the specifications.

The first man called was Peter W. Stambaugh, Democratic judge of elections. He said that many more voters were given assistance than at any previous election, that forty seven men received assistance the most of them by Daniel Lehn, Elmer and John Mitchell and Robert Prowell. Some Democrats also gave assistance to voters, he said, but not so many as the Republicans gave. He said that, whereas the district was normally from 50 to 100 Democratic, in November it gave a Republican majority. He had no personal knowledge of money being given for votes and, on cross examination, stated that owing to its being a rapidly growing section of the city the political status of the precinct might have changed.

Andrew W. Mamford, Democratic inspector, corroborated Stambaugh's testimony and said that he understood there was "money about" on election day but saw no money or checks pass. Twice as many were given assistance as in former years, many saying they were unable to mark their ballots.

Daniel Lehn, Republican committeeman, said he paid $3 each to 15 or 16 workers on election day and $8 to one who had an automobile but that this was the only money he handled. He said that only a few more Democrats than Republicans were registered in the precinct in question.

Moses Gohn, a Republican inspector, gave testimony that was largely immaterial. He said among other things that the count of the vote had been done properly.

At Wednesday afternoon's hearing a number of witnesses were called and an effort made to show the use of money to secure votes. The effort was not successful. Their testimony showed, among other things, that Democratic funds were very scarce on election day.

"Snoot" Fry, who figured in the earlier hearings, was on the stand during the afternoon and denied having promised money or beer for Brodbeck votes. On cross examination it was shown that the witness was a member of an outfit who regularly "touched" candidates. Fry's criminal record shows that he has either pleaded guilty or been found guilty of no less than twelve charges of forgery, one of adultery, and two of assault and battery.

URGES CAUSE OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS

President of School Directors' Association Makes Earnest Plea at Opening Session of Annual Convention. Dr. Claxton here.

An earnest plea for the support of the public school system characterized the opening of the directors' convention in the Court House this morning. Rev. W. K. Fleck, of Fairfield, president of the association, made the initial address and said in part:

"The message I bring to you is not the product of my own brain, but the result of careful thought and observation by men with much larger heads than mine. It is not my message any more than it is your own, but it is a message of the utmost importance to the American people and the country at large. I bring before you the cause of the 'Little Red School House'.

"Several days ago I saw a statement in a newspaper that in one of the countries of Europe there are 12,000,000 illiterates. It made me stop and think. Twelve million illiterate citizens in one of the oldest and best established and most powerful nations in the world unable to read or write. Why is it—why simply because they do not have the little red school house on the hill and in the valley.

"If there is anything that stands for the final development and the permanency of the United States it is the public school. If you want to send this nation into a period of superstition, darkness, illiteracy and ignorance you will take away our public school system.

"What is wrong with Mexico—not revolution. I saw a cartoon the other day which solved the problem. It was simply a picture of an army of American teachers marching into that country bearing with them the little red school house.

"There is more honor in being a public school director and to have in your charge the moulding of the young people of to-day, than to be a director in one of the great railroad systems of the country. And let me tell you, that too many think more of the Almighty dollar than they do of the welfare of the child.

"I want to plead with you men to give your life, your interest, your time and your money to preserving and defending the public schools of our State and of our land. The church and school go hand in hand. Without intelligent children on which to work, the church can do little. Without the school the church cannot progress, without the church the school would be of little avail."

United States Commissioner of Education, Dr. P. P. Claxton, addressed the convention on "The Education Needed for the Farmer and the Farmer's Wife," and J. A. Pentz, of Harrisburg, made the other address of the morning.

HEARING PROTEST

Gettysburg Has now Lost Two Games by One Point.

Action is pending on Gettysburg's protest of the basketball game played recently at Susquehanna. At the close of the game Gettysburg is said to have led 31 to 30 but the time-keeper allowed an extra eight seconds to be played during which Susquehanna made two more points. A protest was immediately lodged but no action has been taken.

Gettysburg lost to Muhlenberg at Allentown by one point on Wednesday night the score being 48 to 47. The winning team made their final point on a foul in an extra two minute period.

POSTPONED

"Incog" will not be Produced until Early Spring.

It has been decided to postpone until after Easter the home talent play, "Incog", which will be given for the benefit of the Gettysburg Fire Company.

BASE BALL FANS TO HOLD MEETING

Gettysburg Enthusiasts will be Given Chance to Tell whether or not they Favor Game under National Protection.

Gettysburg's base ball fans are invited to attend a meeting which will be held at 7:30 on Monday evening in the office of S. S. Neely Esq., president of the local club.

At noon on Tuesday representatives of the five teams composing the proposed league will meet in Hagerstown to determine whether or not the organization shall go under national protection. The meeting here Monday night is for the purpose of getting local sentiment on the subject so that the delegates from Gettysburg may go to Hagerstown fully instructed.

Fans attending the meeting will be asked to express their desires and also to give the reasons for the opinions they hold.

One of the most serious difficulties in the way of Gettysburg's team, in case it should be decided to go under national protection, is the fact that this would make professionals of all of the players and there is a growing sentiment which would bar such players from college teams. It is scarcely probable that the boys on the team of the local college would care to run the risk of being barred from inter-collegiate contests just because of the pay they would secure here next summer.

It is understood that the town team will be composed largely of college players so that the matter is judged worthy of very serious consideration.

THOUSANDS DIE IN FIERCE CHARGE

Battle For Heights in Carpathian Mountains.

GERMANS ARE REPULSED

Suffer Terrible Losses in Hand-to-Hand Combat With Russians For Positions on Snow-Covered Hills.

Petrograd, Feb. 11.—Details of a desperate fight in the Carpathians with ferocious bayonet charges, described as without precedent in history, reached Petrograd.

According to these reports, repeated German attacks were finally repulsed by the Russians, and the German dead lay in great numbers in front of the Russian positions. The losses are described as enormous.

The scene of the fighting was Balgrad, thirty miles south of Sanok, in Galicia. It is claimed by the Russian staff that the Hungarian forces in the Carpathians have been augmented by 300,000 Germans and that German officers are directing the Carpathian movement.

The German plan, insofar as it can be observed, now seems to be to abandon gradually their aggressive on the Bzura and in the Vistula region, and to transfer their troops to points where there is greater opportunity of piercing the Russian defense.

Concentrating their forces the night of Feb. 7 the Germans early the following morning began what doubtless rapidly developed into one of the fiercest attacks in the history of the Carpathian campaign. With their first line almost annihilated, the Germans pushed forward their second line, under the support of heavy artillery, and gained a strategic elevation.

From this position they were almost immediately driven back by a Russian bayonet charge. Attack and counter attack followed in rapid succession, and toward evening the Germans, in great numbers, seemed to be in permanent possession of the heights.

The general counter attack by the Russians resulted in two hours of hard hand to hand fighting, which left the snowclad hillsides strewn with dead. After a most stubborn resistance the German regiments finally were definitely driven out. A Russian officer claims personally to have counted more than 1000 German dead before the Russian positions on this hill.

The official statement of the Russian general staff follows:

"The Germans, who gradually had been concentrating in East Prussia with fresh troops, began a series of energetic reconnaissances, and on Feb. 7 they opened offensive operations, with considerable forces, in the district between Horschel and Johannsburg. They undertook at the same time active operations on both wings of their front in East Prussia.

"In the vicinity of Lassdennen, east of Tilsit, we drove back a German attack, and almost completely annihilated one German battalion. Following this encounter, our cavalry moved forward toward Sierpec, traveling over the road to Rybin.

"On the left bank of the Vistula, during Feb. 8, the enemy showed no signs of activity.

"Judging from the corpses abandoned by the Germans in front of our positions, they would appear to have lost in dead and wounded several tens of thousands of men in the six days' fighting in front of Borlinow, Goumine and Wola Szydlowiecka.

Armies Fight in Deep Snow.

Berlin, Feb. 11.—Deep snow is proving a great hindrance to military operations in the Carpathian mountains, according to dispatches from Austro-Hungarian press sources.

The troops are obliged to keep to the valley roads, and the development of maneuvers for battle is most difficult.

The Russians are reported to be resisting stubbornly at Dukla Pass and continually to be bringing up new troops. They are strongly fortified along the whole front, and the operations of the German and Austrian allies necessarily are slow.

The following official statement was made in Berlin:

"Isolated fighting on the East Prussian frontier developed at some points into greater engagements, which are progressing normally.

Russians Routed in Carpathians.

Vienna, Feb. 11.—Reports from the Carpathian front described the Russian defeat in Bukovina as a complete rout, in which more than 100,000 of the czar's troops fled in disorder, abandoning guns, ammunition and food supplies. The retreating troops, it is asserted, were saved from annihilation only by the arrival of fresh forces.

FRENCH ADVANCE BY USING MINES

Use the Bayonet After Explosions at La Boisselle.

Paris, Feb. 11.—The following communication was issued by the French war office:

"During the night of Feb. 9-10 we blew up at La Boisselle three series of mines and succeeded in occupying the excavations thus made, notwithstanding a counter attack, which we repulsed with the bayonet.

"In the Argonne there has been an artillery firing, and the throwing of bombs on all sides, particularly in the region of Bolante and Bagatelle. According to the latest advices, it is reported that the Germans have delivered a very violent but fruitless attack on the fortification of Marie Therese.

"In Lorraine, at La Lisere, east of the forest of Parroy, and to the north of that forest our advance posts have easily repulsed an attack of the enemy.

"The minor action to the northeast of Manonviller ended in the pursuit of the Germans by the hussars.

"In the Vosges, at La Fontenelle (Ban-De-Sapt) an attack by the enemy has been checked."

ZEPPELIN PLUNGES INTO SEA

Entire Crew Drowns When German Airship Falls Into Water.

Geneva, Feb. 11.—The entire crew of a Zeppelin, which has been missing for four days, was drowned when the airship fell into the North sea, off the coast of Denmark, during a storm. It is reported at Friedrichshafen. Details of the disaster have not been received. The ill-fated airship was one of the newest Zeppelin type.

It is said in Geneva that one Zeppelin and two airships of the Parseval type will accompany the German troops detailed to take the field against Serbia. The Parsevals, deflated and loaded on special railroad trucks, passed through Munich Monday on the way to Vienna.

RAILED AT U. S. AMBASSADOR

Berliner Objects to Use of English, Then Attacks This Country.

Berlin, Feb. 11.—While Mr. Gerard and a party from the American embassy were attending a theater they were greatly annoyed by a man in the audience who protested because they were speaking English.

When this man was informed that his remarks were directed against the American ambassador he began a loud and violent tirade against the United States for permitting the exportation of arms. The man was finally suppressed.

SAY GERMANS LOST 50,000

London, Feb. 11.—The correspondent of the Star says:

"The Russians have inspected the battlefield on the Hawka, between Goumine and Bolimow, where a six day battle ended Sunday in a German defeat. They estimate from the bodies thus far found that the Germans lost 50,000 dead. The German attack was the last headlong onslaught that will be made on the Russian defense line in central Poland."

Austrians Strike Serb Army.

Rome, Feb. 11.—It is reported from Bucharest that fighting is in progress between Austrians and Serbians near Osseova and Verchiorova, on the Danube river, in north Serbia.

PRIZE COURT TO TAKE CARGO

British to Pass on Food on Wilhelmina Bound For Germany.

STORM DAMAGES VESSELS

Foreign Office Disapproves of Proposal For Joint Prize Court to Adjudicate Matter.

London, Feb. 11.—It was announced in official circles that the cargo of the American steamer Wilhelmina, which put in at Falmouth on its way to Bremen, will be taken before a prize court.

Before this announcement the cargo of the Wilhelmina, which consists of food supplies for German civilians, was discussed in the house of commons. The government was asked whether it intended to seize the cargo of the vessel.

In response, Neil Primrose, under secretary of foreign affairs, said: "An inquiry into the nature of the cargo of the Wilhelmina is now going on."

Without definitely refusing the suggestion, the foreign office has expressed its disapproval of the proposal for a joint prize court to which one or more judges might be appointed by neutral and the allied powers.

Mr. Primrose, speaking in the house, said the proposal involved such far-reaching changes in the British constitutional and judicial systems and would be so difficult of application that it would not be easy to arrange.

Considerable mystery was attached to the Wilhelmina case. Up to Wednesday afternoon the American embassy had received no official word of her arrival.

The Wilhelmina will have to remain in Falmouth several days, as a result of damage suffered in storms which she encountered on her voyage across the Atlantic. Two of her boats were broken, her bow plates were started and other damage was received.

Captain Brewer, of the Wilhelmina, said that until he reached England he had not heard of the decree of the German government to appropriate foodstuffs. He said he was waiting orders, and did not know what would happen next.

The Pall Mall Gazette intimates that the voluntary appearance of the Wilhelmina in a British port is part of a scheme. It says:

"The Wilhelmina has gone into the Falmouth harbor without giving our ships the trouble of capturing her. The owners of her cargo are inviting us to tread on the tail of their coat. We shall see whether our government will oblige them. If they prefer it, there is an easy way of avoiding a direct challenge on the question of conditional contraband. The admiralty can use its time-honored pre-emption and take the cargo for use of the royal navy on payment. That is a course of action that is not likely to be contested."

MARITZ REPORTED EXECUTED

Head of Boer Rebellion Said to Have Been Killed For Treachery.

Pretoria, Union of South Africa, Feb. 11.—Certain newspapers of Pretoria have published a report that Lieutenant Colonel S. G. Maritz, the Boer officer who has been at the head of the rebellious movement in South Africa, has been executed by the Germans for treachery.

Maritz's movement was supported by the Germans of German Southwest Africa. There is as yet no official confirmation of this report.

Kills Father With "Unloaded" Pistol.

Dorothy, N. J., Feb. 11.—Joseph Martin was shot and killed by his five-year-old son, Alexander. He was seated at dinner, when the child picked up a revolver, supposed to be an unloaded, and while playing with it the gun was discharged. The bullet entered the father's neck and came out through the forehead, killing him instantly.

Airmen Bombard Turk Forts.

Mitylene, Feb. 11.—Several English and French seaplanes flew over the Turkish city of Thracas, according to a dispatch from Tenedos. Two of the machines went as far as Adrianople, dropping bombs on the forts. The Turks are said to have been unprepared for a bombardment, as they did not expect allied aircraft to venture so far inland.

Kills Mother, Then Himself.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Mrs. Kate Scrivener, seventy years old, and her son, Richard H. Scrivener, are dead in what the police believe is murder and suicide, following a quarrel. Madened by drugs, Scrivener is believed to have come home, quarreled with his aged mother and then shot her, after which he turned the gun on himself.

Steel Tonnage Increases.

New York, Feb. 11.—The unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel corporation on Jan. 31 totalled 4,248,571 tons, an increase of 411,928 tons over December. The present tonnage is the highest since March, 1914. In January of last year the unfilled orders were placed at 4,613,680, and in 1913 at 7,827,368 tons.

HOME AIDS MURDER PROBE

Assists Officials in Inquiry Into Poison Confession.

New York, Feb. 11.—The board of trustees of the German Odd Fellows' home in Yonkers, where Frederick Mors, now in the psychopathic ward in Bellevue hospital, has said that he methodically killed eight aged inmates, decided to appoint a special committee to co-operate with the authorities in probing the startling allegations.

Frank Fuchs, president of the Odd Fellows' Home association, said that he had personally requested District Attorney Martin to have one of the bodies of the alleged poison victims exhumed.

Mr. Fuchs added that if the district attorney did not see fit to exhumate one of the bodies the lodge owning the home would discuss the advisability of obtaining permission to do so themselves. The Odd Fellows, Mr. Fuchs said, wanted the truth or the falsity of the Mors statement definitely settled.

ORDUNA FLIES U. S. FLAG IN IRISH SEA

Passengers Tell of Use of the Stars and Stripes.

New York, Feb. 11.—Passengers on the Cunard line British steamship Orduna, which arrived here from England, said that the vessel flew the American flag for nearly twenty-four hours on Jan. 31, while she was passing through the Irish sea.

The Stars and Stripes, these passengers said, were hoisted Sunday, about an hour after the Orduna left Liverpool, and were not hauled down until early Monday morning.

Officials of the Cunard Steamship company admitted that the steamship Orduna, which arrived in this port from Liverpool, flew "a neutral flag" for a time while she was clearing the Irish coast.

This statement was made after a number of passengers on the British liner had declared that for nearly twenty-four hours on Jan. 31 she flew the Stars and Stripes while passing through the Irish sea.

These passengers asserted that the American flag was flying fast, indicating the nationality of the vessel. On behalf of the line a denial was made during the day that the Orduna had flown the flag except at the foremast, it being explained that it was customary for all ships to do this to indicate the country for which they are bound.

Captain Thomas M. Taylor, in command of the Orduna, declined to make any statement. He said he was under orders from the British admiralty not to talk.

ENGAGEMENT

Robert Wolf, of the Seminary, and Miss Wall, of Harrisburg.

Dr. and Mrs. Richard J. Wall, of 2021 North Sixth street, Harrisburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Esther Wall, to Robert Jacob Wolf, of that city. No date is set for the marriage. The bride-to-be who is one of the most attractive young women of the city, is a stenographer at the Elliott-Fisher company.

"Mr. Wolf is a graduate of the Harrisburg Academy and of Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg. He is now a student in the Theological Seminary. Mr. Wolf is a popular member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and has a host of friends."

The above is a clipping from the Harrisburg Telegraph and the Waynesboro Herald adds:

"Mr. Wolf is a brother-in-law of Mr. J. E. Wright, 17 South Grant street, supervisor of the International Correspondence Schools, of Scranton, for this district.

"Both he and his bride-to-be were on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Wright over the week-end two weeks ago. It was while on this visit that the above matrimonial compact was sealed. Mr. Wolf proposed to Miss Wall Sunday night and was accepted. The following morning the couple left for Harrisburg and Tuesday their engagement was announced."

KEENE COMING

Favorite with Gettysburg People will again Appear here.

"It is to be regretted that a larger audience did not see Keene, the magician, who gave a most entertaining diversity of tricks and illusions at the opera house last night. Mr. Keene has an advantage over most magicians who have appeared in Danville, inasmuch as he performs with such ease and absence of hurry."—Danville (Pa.) News.

WEALTHIEST MEN GIVE VIEWS ON FOUNDATIONS, CAPITAL, LABOR

© 1915, by American Press Association.
[Snapped on witness stand, New York city, Feb. 5.]

ANDREW CARNEGIE.

SEVENTY-NINE years old Nov. 25 last. Business: "To do as much good as I can." Donor of $24,657,393 to various public and private benefactions and thinking himself "in nothing else so happy as in a soul remembering my dear friends, to whom I owe so much."

Short of stature, with hair and pointed beard of white. Dressed all in black—gaiters, clothes and satin bow tie, with burnished gold studs and cuff buttons. Snapping eyes looked over silver spectacles, while the exuberance of his spirits carried him from chuckles to shouts of laughter, while he gestured freely and widely. Voice strong and pleasant, though growing husky toward the end of his hour's examination. Reluctant to leave the stand and declaring when he did so, "I haven't spent so agreeable an afternoon in I don't know when."

ANDREW CARNEGIE, testifying before the federal commission on industrial relations in New York city, when asked what his business is, replied: "My business is to do as much good as I can. I am retired from business."

He stood up and gripped the ends of the small table in front of him. Chairman Walsh explained the purpose of calling him as a witness.

"I do not know how to thank you," said the ironmaster. "I have a prepared statement here. Now, may I begin?"

"You may sit down now if you wish," said Mr. Walsh.

"I like to stand," said the witness. "I'm not much of an orator, but I love to stand."

Mr. Carnegie placed his notes on the table and, leaning over them, began:

"I have read with deep interest the testimony given before you by many millionaires—Messrs. Schiff, Belmont, Guggenheim, Perkins, Gary and notably Miss Tarbell, who, though not a millionaire, certainly deserves to be. She seems to have a firm grasp upon the problem and proves herself one who studies the question and rightly appreciates the great progress made during her time. I agree with her statement, 'Same publicity is the cure for most evils in American industrial life.'"

Wants Ford to Have Chance.

"Last, but not least, the testimony of that unaccountable being, Henry Ford, who declares that he could make every convict in Sing Sing a competent, trustworthy laborer in the vineyard. I am not disposed to question anything that this prodigy asserts. Success to him! By all means let us give him a trial."

"I never bought or sold shares on the exchange. All my earnings were from manufacturing. If it were necessary for me to return to that calling I should not consider the problem of labor as at all difficult. On the contrary, I enjoyed conferences with our men. We had one rule: Come what may, we would never think of running our works with new men. Able, sober, well behaved workmen such as ours were are not to be picked up on the streets, and we wished no others. We were very particular in regard to drinkings. First offense, men were excluded thirty days; second offense, sixty days; third offense, we parted company."

The Gospel of Wealth.

"It is fourteen years since I retired from business in pursuance of my decision to cease accumulation and begin distribution of surplus wealth. In which I am still engaged. In 1888 I published an article in the North American Review, which was afterward christened 'Gospel of Wealth' by Mr. Gladstone. He commented upon it in the Nineteenth Century. It attracted attention, and many answers were sent to this magazine."

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER.

SEVENTY-FIVE years old July 8 last. Business: "I have been retired for the past twenty or twenty-five years." Donor of "approximately a quarter of a billion dollars" to various public and private benefactions, according to his son's estimate a week ago, and believing "it is a great power to be able to give. It may be equally virtuous or commendable to withhold."

Tall, slender and gray, his ruddy face bespeaking his outdoor life. Dressed in a suit of mixed gray and green and red, with a blue striped shirt, a high band collar, a dark blue fur-lined scarf and an emerald pin. Steady, small eyes, looking through rimless eyeglasses that slipped at intervals from his nose. Talking in a high nasal tone, he testified at a timed rate of sixty words a minute. Smiled only once.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER was assisted to the stand by the sergeant-at-arms when he testified before the federal commission on industrial relations. After he had taken his seat he turned toward the commissioners and not once during the afternoon faced the spectators squarely. His face was flushed and his eyes active, but not particularly bright.

Here are some of the points made by the "oil king" on the stand:

Rockefeller Foundation.

"The Rockefeller foundation was a development into impersonal form of my own personal plans of giving, followed for many years. While I desired to have the directors of the foundation free to use the funds as they might see fit, in making my last gift I reserved the right to designate during my lifetime the specific objects to which $2,000,000 of the income should be given annually, my purpose being in this way to provide for the various philanthropies more or less personal to myself and related to the places of my residence, to which I have been a contributor in the past. Under the terms of the clause of my letter of gift reserving this right it is stipulated that the objects must be within the corporate purposes of the foundation, and my designations are subject to review by the board as to that feature."

"I regard the right to amend or rescind the respective charters of the several foundations which inhere in the legislative bodies which granted them, as entirely sufficient guarantee against serious abuse of the funds."

"I would never allow men the right to organize themselves—the workmen and the business man as well—with the proper limitations in respect to safeguarding the interests of the public or parties concerned."

Laborers as Partners.

"I will be very happy to see the laborers gradually become the owners of these same prosperous businesses to which you refer. I should be only too happy to surrender my holdings in part or in any or all that the laborers might come into the relation to the enterprise and have their representation on the boards of directors according to their ownership, just the same as all other shareholders, thus giving them the profits to which you referred."

"We believe that the issue is not a local one in Colorado. It is a national issue, whether workers shall be allowed to work under such conditions as they may choose. Our interest in the laboring man is so immense, so deep, that we stand ready to lose every cent we put in that company rather than see the men we have employed thrown out of work and have imposed upon them conditions which are not of their seeking. It was upon a similar principle that the war of the Revolution was carried on. I feel decidedly that the employer must stand by his loyal men."

these states each year a large quantity of this dairy product is shipped to Central and South America, as well as to Europe.

LINCOLN

I.
We strive in narrow, selfish ways
To win advancement or have praise,
To gain rewards, to hear applause,
To be accounted great or wise;
We make convenience a cause,
And ever look with watchful eyes
For that approval, right or wrong,
Accorded by the noisy throng.
To them that have the wit to see
Which way the crowds intend to fare,
And brazenly pretend to be
The God-sent, glorious leaders there.

II.
He saw with vision true and clear,
And, crushing doubt and scornful fear,
Advanced, with conscience as his guide;
Discerning where the course was laid,
He waited not for wind or tide,
Nor for the mob's approval stayed;
A giant where weak pygmies rose
To jeer and clamor and oppose,
He pressed with godlike earnestness
And an unconquerable soul
Through hellish hate and bloody stress,
To die a martyr at the goal.

III.
We worry over little cares,
We mutter foolish, selfish prayers,
And think that God will deign to heed;
We scheme to keep our brothers back,
We long to dazzle or to lead,
And sigh for riches that we lack;
We covet honors and are proud
To win the favors of the crowd
That for a little while has time
To cheer us where we strut, to let Us fancy we have grown sublime,
And then is ready to forget.

IV.
We read the sad appeal that lies
Within his kindly, sunken eyes
And learn a little of his lore;
We mark the lines upon his brow
And dimly see how much he bore,
And in our weakness wonder how;
We gaze upon the sculptured face,
And all the patient sorrows trace;
We search for vanity, for pride,
That, human-like, he might have claimed.
Then thrust our little cares aside,
And turn away, and are ashamed.

PENS THAT ENDED GREAT CIVIL WAR

Precious Historic Relics Used by Generals Grant and Lee Are Now Treasured in Missouri City.

THE two pens that ended the great Civil War are in Missouri. Only once have they been dipped in ink since the memorable day when U. S. Grant and Robert E. Lee made use of them in the Virginia hamlet dignified by the name of Appomattox Courthouse. The present owner, Dr. E. P. Cronkite, a St. Joseph dentist, would deem it little short of sacrilege for the pens to be touched by any drop of ink destined to flow into ordinary sentences. The pens repose securely in a strong box in Doctor Cronkite's St. Joseph home, 2015 Francis street. They still are wrapped in a paper taken from the table on which the surrender paper was signed.

The coming of these historic pens to Missouri was not heralded. They were added to one of the most interesting private historical collections in the state, but a collection the existence of which is quite unknown even in St. Joseph save to those of Doctor Cronkite's intimates who have had the hospitality of his den on the third floor of his home.

The pen came to Doctor Cronkite from Mrs. A. B. Lawrence of Warsaw, N. Y., after the death of her husband, Colonel Lawrence, who in his lifetime was indeed an indefatigable collector. The colonel gathered together every Bible translation but two, while his collection of coins sold for $10,000 on his death. One tie between the St. Joseph collector and Colonel Lawrence was the fact that Doctor Cronkite's father was an officer in the First New York dragons, of which Colonel Lawrence was lieutenant colonel.

No better history of the pens probably is to be desired than the one written out in Colonel Lawrence's handwriting:

"The pens in this box, one a quill, the other steel, marked at the time, April 10, 1865, are the ones used in signing the Gen. R. E. Lee surrender papers in the Col. Wilmer McLean house, where the surrender took place at Appomattox Courthouse, Va., April 10, 1865, and were given to me in the McLean house April 10, 1865, as souvenirs with a piece of the table on which General Lee signed the surrender dictated by General Grant."

The piece of table was given to me next day in my office in the sheriff's room of the courthouse by Colonel Wilmer McLean, with a certificate of its history. The sheriff was William Daniel Hix, now in Hixburg, Appomattox, Va., to whom I turned over the surplus surrender property for distribution among the poor and deserving of the vicinity of the surrender by verbal order of General Grant to me in the presence of Maj. Gen. John Gibbons, president of the commission

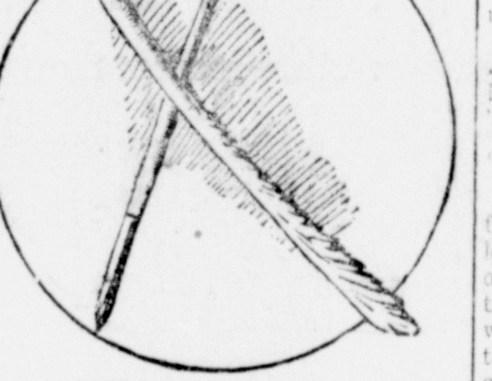

Trapped.
They were quarrelling. "Well, you can't say I ran after you," said the wife. "Neither does a mousetrap run after the mice, but it catches 'em just the same," replied hubby.

Left by General Grant to close up surrender matters at the courthouse. The ragged piece of paper in which the pens are wrapped was part of a larger piece on the table on which the surrender papers were written, and which I took from the table to wrap the pens in as they were handed to me by General Potter, our Twenty-fourth army corps chief of staff, for the valued souvenirs they were.

"These pens have never been but once since dipped in ink, and then at the Soldiers' fair in New York city for my signature the evening General Grant was there."

(Signed) A. B. LAWRENCE.
An even more detailed account, in Colonel Lawrence's handwriting, tells of his coming into possession of a bit of the surrender table:

"Piece of the table upon which Gen. Robert E. Lee signed the terms of surrender dictated by Gen. U. S. Grant, April 9, 1865. Colonel McLean said that Gen. P. H. Sheridan sought to buy the table, but that he would not sell it; that in his absence General Sheridan left a $50 greenback and carried off the table, from which this piece had been broken off in the doing. Which piece he later brought as a relic to Col. A. B. Lawrence in his office in the sheriff's room of the courthouse, also saying that he, McLean, had moved from Manassas, Va., after the Bull Run battle, to escape any more such, and to the safe Appomattox Courthouse, Va., where he had to endure the geying of the residents for running away, etc., and was now glad that they had an eye-opening experience of their own in war horrors, and that it was his vindication which he was glad to have. Also, that the Bull Run battle was fought mainly on his plantation, on which was Bull Run ford, Blackburn ford, McLean ford, etc.; that General Beauregard used his (McLean's) home for his headquarters during the battle, and wrote his orders and dispatches there on this table or stand, and so McLean says: 'The war began on my plantation and ended in my house on this table. So I did not want to sell it. I have had a hand in the beginning and the end of the war; and enough of it!'

"I have since learned that General Sheridan gave the table to Mrs. General Custer.
"The certificate given me by Colonel McLean about this table is on file with my Appomattox Courthouse surrender papers, where, under order of General Grant, I acted as chief quartermaster of the United States forces at Appomattox Courthouse, Va., from April 9, 1865, until we retired to Richmond with effects."

LINCOLN HOUSE OF WORSHIP

Lincoln an Inventor.
Among the inventions on file at the patent office in Washington is one by Abraham Lincoln, designed to enable freight-laden flatboats to work their way over the sand bars of the Mississippi river. Lincoln conceived the idea when, as a young man, he was hired as a boatman on the Mississippi, and met the obstacles that his invention was meant to overcome.

The invention consists of one or more huge bellows attached to each side of the boat. When the boat sticks on a shoal, the bellows are to be inflated by means of a windlass connected with upright poles attached to the bellows. The idea is that the air in the bellows increases the buoyancy of the craft, and makes it draw less water.

Aeroplane Testing.
In a French aeroplane factory wings are being tested by turning machines upside down and loading them with sand, evenly distributed, until a weight exceeding the pressure the wings must withstand is reached.

Medical Advertising TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grand mother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sure the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray appearance of absence which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, hair disappears, but your locks the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifying and thickening the hair after a few applications, it also protects that soft lustrous and an-

SHIP BILL FOES BREAK DEADLOCK

Opponents End Senate's Longest Continuous Session.

EXTRA SESSION PROBABLE

Senator O'Gorman Declares This Action Means the Death of the Administration Measure.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Republican and Democratic senators who oppose the government ship purchase bill, aided by Senators Norris and Kenyon, Progressive Republicans, who have stood by the bill, forced an adjournment of the longest continuous session in the history of the senate, and made more certain than ever the fate of the measure which the administration has so urgently pressed on congress.

Upon the adjournment after fifty-four hours and eleven minutes of continuous debate, leading members of both houses of congress conceded that an extra session, to be called soon after March 4, seemed inevitable.

There were some members, however, who still hoped that there yet might be time to dispose of appropriation bills and the ship purchase measure in some form before adjournment.

Adjournment came on a motion made by Senator O'Gorman, which prevailed, 48 to 46, after Senator Norris, deploring the fatiguing filibuster, had proclaimed his conclusion that opponents of the ship purchase bill could filibuster it to its death.

Senator O'Gorman, one of the Democratic insurgents, said that the action of the senate, in his opinion, meant the death of the ship purchase measure.

Disappointed over the loss of support from the Progressive Republicans, but still hopeful that something yet could be done to save the bill, administration leaders of the senate would not admit that the cause was lost.

Anticipating a break in the senate, President Wilson had been conferring with house leaders on plans of getting the bill before the house, and such a course may be taken, though the senate Republicans insist that their fight will continue until the end of the session, no matter what the administration forces may accomplish on the house side.

Today the plan of administration leaders is to press Senator Fletcher's motion to recommit the ship purchase bill with instructions for its amendment to satisfy Republican Progressives.

It is conceded to be probable, however, that this motion will be defeated and that Senator Clarke's motion to recommit the bill to the commerce committee, without instructions, subsequently will prevail. Senator Kenyon will vote for the later motion and Senator Norris is expected to do so also in view of his announced position. That would give the opposition a majority of one, with every senator voting.

Insurgent Democrats, led by Senator Hardwick, sought to effect a compromise with their colleagues by which the party could be united in a renewed effort to pass the bill. The chances for the success of this move could not be predicted.

The plan suggested is that the warring Democrats hold a conference after the recommitment of the bill. Some of the insurgents then would propose that the bill be amended to provide that the proposed government ship purchase enterprise should terminate at a stated period after the close of the European war and purchase of interned ships of belligerents be absolutely prohibited.

BANK ROBBER SHOT DEAD

Cincinnati Cashier Fired at Order to Throw Up His Hands.

Cincinnati, Feb. 11.—An unidentified bank robber was shot to death and his companion captured in a pistol fight after the men attempted to rob the Mohawk German Branch bank at Fifteenth street and Central avenue.

Cashier William C. Ross opened fire when ordered to throw up his hands. Several shots were exchanged. One of the men staggered to the side walk and fell dead. The other grabbed a satchel containing $78 and fled.

Police, attracted by the shots, pursued the fleeing man, firing as they ran. He dodged into a house and took refuge in the cellar, where he was captured.

The captured robber said he was William A. Patterson, of Covington, Ky., but refused to reveal the identity of his dead companion.

Speaker Clark For More "Pork."

Washington, Feb. 11.—Railroads will be forced to double or quadruple their track systems throughout the United States unless the country's rivers are made navigable, according to a statement by Speaker Clark, who strongly advocated larger river and harbor appropriations.

WANT RAILROADS TO PAY

Reading Would Have Illegal Car Riders Maintained by Companies.

Reading, Pa., Feb. 11.—The officials of the Berks county prison will try to compel the Philadelphia & Reading and the Pennsylvania railroads to pay something toward the cost of maintaining prisoners sent to jail at the instance of railroad detectives on the charge of illegal car riding.

At the monthly meeting of the prison inspectors the matter was vigorously discussed and Solicitor Leonard J. Yoder was instructed to take it up with the district attorney.

Many illegal car riders are sent to jail monthly to serve thirty-day sentences, and these and the many committed from police courts for short sentences cause the quarters devoted to them to become overcrowded.

It was the sentiment at the meeting that it is not fair to the taxpayers to have them bear all the burden of the cost of punishment of those guilty of violating railroad regulations.

$41,000 IS NEEDED TO SAVE THE BANK

Stockholders Told They Must Put Up That Sum.

Schaefferstown, Pa., Feb. 11.—The stockholders of the First National bank of Schaefferstown, in town meeting were told that they must raise $41,000 in order to save the bank from being wiped out as the result of the operations of Alvin Binner, the cashier, who committed suicide on Saturday.

This sum, it was stated by Uriah B. Horst, president of the bank, is necessary if the institution is to be reopened for business. It was stated that there is no assurance that the $41,000 represents the total loss of the bank.

Failure of the bank officials to give the assembled stockholders anything definite in the way of figures covering the loss, or complete information as to the manner in which the loss was sustained, caused a majority of the stockholders to withhold their assent that they put up money at once. A few of the shareholders, represented by the directorate, pledged themselves to subscribe funds.

Mr. Horst, who was made chairman of the stockholders' meeting, in explaining the condition of the bank as disclosed up to this time by the bank examiner, said that the $41,000 required to reopen the bank were debt accounts of the three men named by the cashier in his note to his wife and children.

Mr. Horst expressed the belief that not one penny could be realized from A. J. Hovetter, a Lebanon life insurance agent, who is now under arrest on a charge of aiding Binner in the misappropriation of $12,582.12 by the means of bad checks.

D. B. Kiefer, a Middletown cattle dealer, Mr. Horst declared, was considered good for all of the $12,000 which he owes, and Edwin Horst, a Schaefferstown cigar manufacturer and tobacco dealer, is looked upon as certain to pay every penny of his $12,000 account.

The Kiefer and Horst accounts, with the $15,000 represented by Binner's bond, Mr. Horst pointed out, would eventually reduce the present deficit of $41,000 to but $4,000, but the whole of the deficit is demanded at this time in order to save the bank.

It is seriously doubted, from recent researches, that the memory resides in any particular tissue such as the brain, the ganglion cells or the nerves. It has been proved experimentally by a host of laboratory scientists that any kind of human tissue, such as skin, muscles, stomach, kidneys or any part of the fabric of life, retains and is able to repeat an impression once received.—Dr. Leonard Keene Hirschberg.

HOW TO MAKE THE CHEAPEST AND BEST COUGH REMEDY AT HOME

Most persons neglect a cough or cold for the principal reason that they either don't think it serious enough to go to a doctor, or don't know what good medicine to buy at a drug store, with the result that the cough or cold becomes deep-seated through this neglect and hangs on the whole winter—which might have otherwise been speedily cured, had Schiffmann's Concentrated Expecto-rant been used promptly.

This new remedy is so strongly concentrated that two ounces (50 cents worth) make a full pint (16 oz.) of excellent cough medicine, by simply mixing it at home with one pint of granulated sugar and ½ pint of water. It makes a whole family supply, as much as would ordinarily cost from $2.00 to $3.00 for the same quantity of the old, ordinary, ready-made kinds of doubtful merit. It is prepared from strictly harmless plants and is so pleasant that children like to take it and it can be given them with perfect safety as it positively contains no chloroform, opium, morphine, or other narcotics, as do most cough mixtures. It is altogether different from any other cough remedy. No risk whatever is run in buying this remedy as the druggist named below will refund money if it does not give perfect satisfaction or is not found the very best remedy you have ever used for stubborn Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough and Hoarseness. In fact any druggist will sell this new remedy under the same guarantee. If your druggist will not keep it for you, order direct of R. J. Schiffmann, St. Paul, Minn. Guaranteed here by For sale by People's Drug Store.

Don't bear unnecessary burdens. Burdens of a bad back are heavy. Get rid of them.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for bad kidneys. For lame, weak and aching backs. Local endorsement proves their worth.

Mrs. C. Culp, 423 Washington St., Gettysburg, says: "One of the family had an attack of kidney complaint after the measles and was left with very weak kidneys. He also had backache and pains in his sides and whenever he lifted, he was in distress. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended and he gave them a trial. I never thought a medicine could give relief so quickly. We recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone who is afflicted with kidney complaint."

LIFE IN DEATH

By SARAH BAXTER

I went to bed with a frightful headache. It really seemed that I could not endure the pain. I did not endure. The agony broke down my nerve strength, leaving me in a condition between sleep and death. At least that is what it seemed to me. I lay in a semiconscious condition till morning, when my maid came into the room, and the moment she looked at me she gave a cry and ran out again. In a few moments every one in the house rushed into the room and on seeing me took on a solemn, some of them a pained, expression.

The first person not a member of the family who came in was my doctor. He looked at me scrutinizingly, felt my pulse, then bent his head down on to my chest to listen for a heartbeat. "I think she is dead," he said.

Just before he spoke the words my fiancée, Ellen Green, came in. I saw him looking at me with an expression which indicated disappointment rather than grief.

"You say, doctor," he broke in, "that you think she is dead? Is there no hope?"

The doctor laid his head again on my breast before replying. "Yes, she is dead."

Ellen turned away, not with a moan. It seemed to me rather with a suppressed oath, and left the room.

I confess that I was too much frightened at the prospect of being buried alive to take an interest in the absence of feeling on the part of my lover at losing me. Had I been free from this fear doubtless it would have affected me intensely. I divined the cause of his bearing toward what he supposed to be my dead body. I was rich; he was poor. He had been acting the lover for the purpose of securing my fortune.

Later in the day my doctor came into the room, where I was lying alone, with another man. Both were physicians, and it was plain to me that they were endeavoring to discover whether or not I was dead. After applying several tests, the nature of which I did not comprehend, they came to the conclusion that my burial had better be delayed, but that they would not give out the fact that they suspected I still lived.

During the afternoon I seemed to pass from my deathlike condition into a restful slumber. When I awoke I was myself again. There was a dim light in the room, and my mind was putting to rights a few things that had been scattered about.

"Christine!" I called. Christine started, turned, looked at me and was about to flee in terror when I said again quietly: "Christine, please bring me a glass of water."

My tone and the ordinary nature of my request reassured her. I told her I had been conscious of all that had passed. She came to me shrillingly, looked at me for a few moments, then ran out of the room as she had done in the morning, this time to inform the household not that I was dead, but that I lived.

My doctor was sent for, and when he came he did not manifest any special surprise at finding me alive. He said he had not believed that I was dead, but would not make known his opinion, being unwilling to excite expectations that might not be realized. I was very weak, and he gave me some drug to tide me over my present condition. I did not feel strong enough to take any interest in anything and, after having partaken of a little nourishment, fell into a slumber.

I soon began to gather strength, and with its return my mind took hold of my discovery of the object Eben Green had in desiring to marry me. Our wedding had been set for a week from the day I was stricken. The narrowness of my matrimonial escape appalled me. I had felt the fear some wealthy girls experience of being married for my money, but Eben had been deceived me entirely. When the doctor had arrived at my return to life he had ordered that I be kept perfectly quiet and no one should be admitted to see me. In a few days I was told that Eben had been anxious to pay me a visit the moment the doctor would permit and that owing to my fiancée's importunities the doctor had consented that he should be admitted for a few moments.

I replied that I did not feel well enough to see him.

My refusal brought me a brief note from Eben, in which he concentrated a world of love. How a man could feign so much depth of feeling, show so much contrast between coldness at learning of my death and joy at my return to life, I could not conceive. I did not reply to his note, and although I gained strength every day and received others, I sent no message to him and would not permit him to see me.

While I was in what they called a comatose condition my cousin, Will Murdock, whom I had considered a brother, came into my room, stood by my bedside and looked down on me mournfully. Then he bent and kissed me. In these few moments was revealed to me what I had never suspected. I supposed it was Eben who loved me. I discovered that it was Will.

When I recovered I wrote the former that I had changed my mind with regard to him. As for Will, my subsequent treatment of him makes a very pretty love story in itself.

Potatoes, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, lettuce, carrots and turnips of fine quality are extensively grown in Yukon Territory, Canada. Potatoes are the principal crop, retailing at five cents a pound.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffing, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.
